

BECOME AN ANGEL DONOR!

Women in Film Nevada and the Nevada Women's Film Festival are looking for your support to make our Young Filmmakers' Workshop
a sustaining annual community event.

WOMEN IN FILM
WIF
NEVADA

Women in Film Nevada's Young Filmmakers' Workshop provides high school students with an intense day of film production. Learners work closely with mentors in small groups at a level of professionalism that might not otherwise be available to them, allowing them to succeed by finishing projects and presenting them at the Nevada Women's Film Festival as part of the Young Filmmakers' Showcase.

Last year's Workshop at Canyon Springs High School was a huge success. Five teams of five students worked with two mentors each to plan, produce, and later edit five short films which were then screened as a showcase on the first night of the 10th Annual Nevada Women's Film Festival. Check out how much fun we had at the Workshop in the video below!

With your help, we can return to Canyon Springs High School in 2025.

Check out Fostering a Love for Learning That Happens Everywhere, a wonderful recap by Allison Cordova of the whole project! Thank you to Sarah O'Connell and to the Nevada Future of Learning Network's Portrait Initiative for supporting this Community Learning Project last year.

At the Showcase (back row, left to right): Educator and project partner, Ms. Keva McGee of Canyon Springs High School, students Citlaly Quinones-Marquez, Eason Drayton, Braylon Williams, Robert Taylor, Charles Warren, Jose Curiel, Satago Aguilar Cervantes, Roberto Aguilar Cervantes. Front row, left to right: Chloe Sullivan, Evalyn Wells, Samiyah Sweat, Kashe Fortin, Pricilla Rodriguez.

Please visit NWFFest.com to learn more about our organization and contact Nikki Corda to become an Angel. We'll see you with the kids on the pink carpet next summer!

Young Filmmakers' Showcase at the NWFFest 2024

Sarah O'Connell
Portrait of a NV Learner

The Nevada Women's Film Festival has been an outstanding

